

Fees at Vermont Health Care

At Vermont Health Care we do not compromise on the quality of the care we provide. We are careful to recruit only the best medical staff. We are continuously investing in technology. The practice is fully accredited by Australian General Practice Accreditation Ltd.

None of this comes without cost, and our fees need to reflect the high costs associated with provided high quality care in the Australian community. As of 1st July 2018, an increase to the government rebate will reduce your out of pocket expense. Our fees will remain as they have been since June 2017. The following fee schedule is effective from the 1st July 2018.

For Consultations at the Surgery

We ask that you pay the whole account on the day of service. For consultations that are paid for at the time of service the maximum out of pocket cost should be no more than $35 regardless of the length of the consultation *

Bulk-billing For Consultations

Children under 16 are generally bulk-billed, this includes evenings and weekends

Pensioners and concession card holders will be bulk billed on weekdays before 6pm

Bulk-billing is not available at all after 6pm (children excepted) and is not necessarily available for procedures

On weekends and public holidays only pension card holders and children are bulk billed.

We offer a concession rate to full time students under 25

Medical Procedures

Procedures vary in cost and complexity and so our procedure fees also vary with cost and complexity. You should not usually be more than $95 “out of pocket” for procedures at Vermont Health Care. Please discuss the expected cost with your doctor before the procedure.

Workcover

For Workcover matters you should be aware that you are responsible for the account until your employer has agreed to pay your medical fees. Usually you will have to pay the account and claim the cost back from your employer. Once your claim has been accepted by a workcover insurer we will generally bill the insurer directly.

Our revised fee schedule is overleaf - effective 1st July 2018.
